

Libby Holman Speeding Away To Retirement

Leaves Hotel During Night After Being Freed on $25,000 Bail

Redsville, N. C.—P—Her surrender completed and her hair arranged, Libby Holman sped back into the hotel room at 2 o'clock this morning.

Wearing dark glasses and accompanied by two unidentified young men, the singer dashed from the hotel room here, stepped into a waiting automobile and left no clue or hint of her destination.

With her arrival here last night following the habeas corpus hearing in New York, which resulted in her immediate release on bail of $25,000, every effort was made to convey the impression that she would remain for the night. Her father, Alfred Holman, departed for Winston-Salem early in the evening and the lights in her room were extinguished. They blazed on again shortly before 2 o'clock.

A few minutes later Miss Holman and two young men appeared in the lobby.

"Is anybody around?" one of them inquired of the clerk.

The hotel employee replied in the negative and Libby led the way to the automobile.

Immediately after her surrender yesterday to Sheriff Transou Scott, Miss Holman was taken, along with a writ of habeas corpus, before Judge A. M. Stack in Winston-Salem.

It was Sheriff Scott who refused to accept the coroner's first verdict to the effect that young Smith Reynolds, tobacco heir and husband of the actress, had committed suicide following a party at the Reynolds home in Winston-Salem on July 6.

Silent in Court

In court she wore a thick, black veil, and she spoke no word as attorneys went through the formalities necessary to obtain her release.

The bail which Judge Stack allowed was the same as that fixed for Albert "Ab" Walker, life-time chum of Reynolds, who was indicted jointly with her.

After the hearing her father and brother, Alfred Holman, Jr., brought her to the hotel here, a distance of seven miles. They refused to say where she had been hiding before her surrender. Miss Holman issued a brief statement through her lawyers in which she asked to be left alone.

Solicitor Carlisle Higgins, who consented to bail for both Walker and Libby, refused to say when he would call the case for trial but told reporters he would not be present Sept. 5, the date on which the special term will open if the formal petition for it is granted.

The next regular term of court in Forsyth-co (Winston-Salem) where the case will be called, is set for Oct. 3.

There was suggestion that the state may wait until after Libby's expected baby is born before calling upon her to go through the ordeal of trial.

Service Commemorates Ruin of Jerusalem

A Tish Bay service, in observance of the destruction of the temple in Jerusalem, 2,500 years ago, will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Moses Montefiore synagogue. Following this service there will be a public memorial service in honor of the deceased of the congregation. Rabbi S. Wurzel will preach on Precious Sons of Zion.

After Palestine was captured and the temple destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, the captives of Judea were carried to Babylon, where they remained in captivity until Cyrus, King of Persia, waged a war against Babylon and permitted the captives of Judea to return to Palestine and rebuild their homes.

Bitter Battle at End in Arkansas

Mrs. Caraway, Backed by Huey Long, Is Seeking Renomination

Little Rock, Ark.—P—Arkansas Democrats voted today on a seven-cornered fight for governor and a similar contest over the senatorial nomination in which the ubiquitous Huey P. Long of Louisiana, campaigned for the incumbent, Mrs. Carrie W. Caraway, America's only woman senator.

Hot races for district and county nominations were eclipsed by the two major battles, both of them bitter. The Democratic nomination in Arkansas is considered equivalent to election.

In the senatorial campaign, Mrs. Caraway who succeeded her husband, the late Thaddeus W. Caraway, sought renomination on her record. Her champion from Louisiana came with sound trucks and ballyhoo and campaigned for seven days, charging Mrs. Caraway's opponents were the "tools" of the power "trusts" and "Wall-st."

Her opponents were former Gov. Charles H. Brough, former Senator W. F. Kirby, O. L. Bodenhamer, former national commander of the American Legion; Melbourne M. Martin, attorney; Vincent M. Miles, Democratic national committee chairman; and former Sheriff W. G. Hutton of Little Rock.

In the race to succeed Gov. Harvey W. Parnell, were Chancellor J. M. Fittrell of Paragould, whom the incumbent supported; Chairman Dwight H. Blackwood of the highway commission; Judge A. B. Pridgen of Russellville; former Gov. Tom J. Terral, State Comptroller; Howard A. Reed, Abley Woodrow and W. P. Wilson.

May Ask Death in Kidnaping Trial

Illinois Banker Still Unable to Identify Suspects as Abductors

Taylorville, Ill.—P—Two men held for the kidnaping of John B. Conover, aged president of a defunct Taylorville bank, face the possibility of death in the electric chair. They have been charged with kidnaping for ransom, a crime punishable by death in Illinois.

The new charge was placed against the prisoners yesterday after the banker, recuperating in a Springfield hospital from the beating administered by his captors and the effects of lying bound and gagged for 36 hours in a weed patch, had told officials $30,000 had been demanded of him.

Previously the prisoners, James Gammon, who lost $5,000 in the closing of Colegrove's bank, and Amelio Puzoski, had been charged with assault with intent to kill, kidnaping and robbery.

Colegrove told officials four men had participated in his kidnaping. One of them, he said, remained with him after he was thrown into the weed patch but apparently became alarmed and fled when his companions failed to return.

The banker, who is under an indeterminate sentence of one to three years following his conviction of charges resulting from his bank's failure, so far has been unable to identify his abductors.

They talked for three hours—the Governor of Maryland and the curly-haired young commander of the bonus marchers, in a conference at the State House in Annapolis. Walter W. Waters, left, asked permission to colonize land deeded him near Waterbury, Md. Governor Albert C. Ritchie declared firmly that the proposed settlement would be a menace to health and would not be permitted.

Poses as Resident to Pass Worthless Checks

A new scheme for passing worthless checks proved successful here last Saturday for a forger for whom police have launched a statewide hunt. One check for $21 was passed at the Gibson Tire and Battery Co. on W. College-ave and another was cashed at the Deep Rock gasoline station at the intersection of W. College-ave and S. Walnut-st.

Both checks were drawn on the Security Bank of Oshkosh and were made out to a Frank Gall. They were both signed by the National Sales Co., per Fred Bell.

At both places the forger worked a confidence game in which he made purchases and requested that the merchandise be delivered to 201 N. Durkee-st at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. At the Gibson Co. he purchased a battery and at the gasoline station he bought a five-gallon can of oil. Truck drivers of the two business places were unable to locate the purchaser when they arrived at that address.

The man was described as weighing about 150 pounds, was well dressed and had a dark complexion.

Wheat Stocks in Wisconsin Larger

111,000 Bushels Now in Storage Compared With 100,000 Year Ago

Madison—P—Wheat stocks in the interior mills and elevators of Wisconsin are now 11 per cent larger than a year ago, it was estimated today by the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and federal department of agriculture.

"The total wheat stored in local elevators and interior mills is estimated at 111,000 bushels compared with 100,000 bushels a year ago and 150,000 bushels in 1930," Walter H. Ebling, agricultural statistician said.

"These wheat stocks represent about 12 per cent of last year's wheat production in Wisconsin."

"For the United States wheat stocks in interior mills and elevators also show a marked increase over a year ago. These stocks for the country are estimated by the United States crop reporting board at 41,817,000 bushels, which is about 38 per cent above the holdings in these mills and elevators a year ago when the estimate was placed at 30,252,000 bushels. In addition to these stocks, there are large stocks of wheat in terminal markets and in the larger mills which are reported by the United States census bureau."

"Stocks of old grain on farms in Wisconsin are considerably smaller this year than last. The 1931 grain crop was rather small because of dry weather, and, as a result, the farm holdings of wheat, oats, and barley are only about half as large now as last year, according to the crop reporting service. This year's grain crop, while making only about average production, is considerably better than the crop of a year ago, and will give some opportunity of rebuilding the farm stocks of grain. Both the acreage and the yield of small grains in Wisconsin are averaging considerably above last year."

Two "Reliefless" Days Every Week

Commissioner Needs the Time for Outside Investigation

Starting Aug. 13, the commissioner of public relief, Joseph E. Schweitzer, will shut his ears on Tuesdays and Thursdays to the tales of woe of people seeking aid. After that date all applications for aid must be made on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays, thus leaving the other two days free for clerical work and investigating.

At the present time the public relief office is crowded practically every hour of the day with people explaining their troubles. So much time is consumed in this contact work that none is left for the other phases of the job. Consequently Mr. Schweitzer decided to institute the Tuesday and Thursday plan in an effort to bring some of his other work up to date.

Canadian, British Differences are Threat to Parley

Both Delegations Striving To Gain Best Bargains Possible

BY FRANK L. WELLES (Associated Press Staff Writer) Ottawa, Ont.—A rift between the Canadian and British delegations over terms for trade agreements cast a shadow over the imperial parley here today and sent the British into conference with the Australians.

Malcolm MacDonald, son of the British prime minister and press liaison officer for the delegation, issued an announcement last night, however, emphasizing that the differences which had arisen were not such as to threaten a deadlock such as occurred in the previous conference at London in 1930.

From the beginning the negotiations between Canada and Great Britain have been the most important phase of the conference and the two delegations have made no secret of the fact that they were out to drive the best bargain possible.

The British have had to consider the effect of empire preferences on Britain's isolated position, which would cause higher food prices at home and also British trade relations with Russia, where there is a population of 200,000,000 to sell to compared with Canada's population of 10,000,000.

Canada, also, has had to keep in mind the interests of its own manufacturers in seeking deals to permit the entry of British factory products in exchange for deals to sell Canadian goods in Britain.

Observers who accompanied the British delegation said every member of it had expressed a determination not to go home empty-handed.

After these discussions, it was planned to take up the question of an empire currency with a view to bringing the monetary unit of each dominion into closer relation with the pound sterling. This would mean a depreciation of the currencies of Canada and South Africa and a slight upturn for Australia and New Zealand.

No attempt to peg the empire currency to the pound was looked for but rather a plan of stabilization on trade acceptances. Canada, with her huge commitments to the United States, which must be paid in gold, was not considered likely to favor the plan unless increased British purchases of Canadian products would bring Canadian export trade into adjustment with imports from the United Kingdom.

State Fourth in Planting of Trees

3,863,300 Seedlings Set Out on Farm and Private Lands

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Wisconsin was fourth among all the states in the number of trees distributed by its state forestry department in 1931 for forest planting on farm lands, state lands and private lands other than farms.

The Badger state distributed 3,863,300 trees during the year, the forest service announced Tuesday. All of these trees were grown in state nurseries.

Leading the Badger state were New York with a total of 41,211,500 trees distributed; Michigan with 23,871,248; and Pennsylvania, more than eight millions. For the country as a whole more than a hundred million trees were distributed, an increase of nearly 30 per cent over 1930.

Of the trees distributed in Wisconsin, 328,300 were for planting on farm lands; 2,550,250 on state lands, and 304,750 on private lands other than farms. Ninety-eight per cent of the trees distributed to farms were planted to produce timber and two per cent to serve as wind breaks and shelter belts.

White pine led all other species in distribution in Wisconsin, followed by Norway pine. Other species sent out in the state were jack pine, Norway spruce, Scotch pine, and white spruce.

Ouster Action Against Owner of Shiloh House

Waukegan, Ill.—P—The shadow of an ouster proceeding today hung over Shiloh House, family home of the widow and son of the late Dr. John Alexander Dowie, founder of the Christian Apostolic church of Zion.

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady yesterday gave the Rev. A. Gladstone Dowie, the son, until next Monday to show cause why he should not make payments on a mortgage on Shiloh house in near-by Zion City, or be ousted. The order was issued after Theodore Goldsmith, a real estate dealer, told the court that he held a $10,000 mortgage on the place, but was unable to collect.

If an ouster order is eventually issued by Judge Dady he will be giving it to one of his old classmates, for he and Mr. Dowie went to school together at the University of Chicago. And it will add another chapter to a long series of events, which included the spectacular rise of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, who came into complete control of the religious colony at Zion City in 1911.

Voliva, who professes to believe that the earth is flat, was the central figure in a court fight which developed in 1907 upon the death of the founder of the colony, with control of the church as the issue. Voliva set up a tent on a farm near Zion City, and called for supporters. They came and were so generous that within a short while Voliva was able to start buying up the village and its property from the court. Various industries were set up to support the population. There were stores and shops of various kinds that paid from the start.

For 20 years Mrs. Dowie, the 77-year-old widow of the colony's founder, remained away from Zion City, Shiloh House, which was built by her husband, was sold in the meanwhile, but it was re-purchased a few years ago by her son, and for two years past he and his mother have occupied the place.

Friends of the aged woman said she had inherited an estate in Australia from a sister, but that because of financial conditions there the funds could not be sent to America. It was in Australia that Voliva did considerable work in behalf of the church prior to 1906 when he returned upon word that the bearded founder of the cult was dying.

Voliva's tenets have been widely publicized. They include an ordinance against smoking.

Two Embezzlers Given Probation By Federal Judge

Other Cases Also Disposed of in United States Court at Superior

Superior—P—Two men who pleaded guilty to charges of embezzling bank and postal funds were placed on probation by Judge Charles C. Briggie in federal court here yesterday.

Charles J. Severson, Wausau, admitted he embezzled $300 from the American National bank of Wausau while employed there as a clerk in November, 1931. He was placed on probation for two years.

Charles J. Anderson, Clayton, pleaded guilty to embezzling $449.68 while postmaster at Clayton. He was placed on probation for one year provided he pays back the money.

The case against Edmond Haquet, alias Ed Jackson, Eau Claire, charging violation of the Mann act, was dismissed.

George C. DeLoney, Odanah, a Chippewa Indian, was sentenced to six months in the house of correction when he pleaded guilty to attacking Charlotte Livingston and William J. Denomie, Jr., Indians of the Bad River reservation.

A petition signed by 21 Arkansas citizens asked clemency for Charles Richardson, who last week was sentenced to pay $200 and serve 60 days on a manufacture of liquor charge. The petition stated Richardson made whisky to support his wife and three children. Judge Briggie suspended sentence and placed him on parole.

Three men were sentenced on liquor charges: Arthur Friebe, Merrill, $300 and 90 days in the house of correction; Myron Taylor, town of Wilson, $100 and 30 days, jail sentence suspended; Elmer Reese, Marshfield, $300 and 90 days.

Regatta Here Next Sunday to Attract Crowd

Nationally Known Racers
Enter Boats in Events

The waters of Little Lake Butte des Morts are due for another thorough churning when the Appleton Yacht club stages its second annual regatta next Sunday afternoon. A program, consisting of various aquatic events, including water skiing, surf board riding, and aquaplaning, has been arranged.

Officials of the Wisconsin Boating association, from Milwaukee will act as technical directors of the regatta, and Judge F. V. Heine-mann and Judge Theodore Berg will be among the judges. A sound amplification system will be installed for the convenience of thousands of spectators who are expected to line the south and north shores of the lake witnessing the annual water races.

Headquarters of the regatta will be established again at Stroebels Island. Parking facilities for spectators and racers will be provided on the island. Concession booths also will be erected on the island.

50 Enter Race

More than 50 of the country's best speedboat racers are expected to enter the regatta, according to information received here by Paul R. Stevens, general chairman of the regatta. Various club members will bring out their cruisers and power boats to act as pole-boys.

Among the principal racers who are expected to put on a real show for the throngs of boating enthusiasts will be Horace Tenness, Chicago. The 20-year-old youngster has been running off with the big trophies in races from the Atlantic coast to the Gulf of Mexico.

Other prominent race drivers who have designated their intentions of racing are: Fred Miskelson, Milwaukee, 1930 national champion in "E" class and twice winner of the famous Duplex oil trophy at Middletown, Conn. He will race there again this year and if he wins the cup the third time it will be his.

To Take Charge

The Oconomowoc corporation will be in several events. This corporation consists of Dan Schuyler, Robert McCulloch, John and Robert Flanagan. These four boys race in all sections of the country. They are in Florida during the winter and spend most of the summer in Wisconsin.

Kirby Raab, national A. A. U. driver will enter his boats Robert W. Guttman, Manitowoc aviator, also will race. Rube Young, former star on the auto race track will be there. William Richardson, Sheboygan Falls, state champion in the "C" class in 1930, has the most unique boats in the racing field. He will come to Appleton with two boats and three motors.

Many Bass Caught In Lake This Year

Fishing Best in Many Years, Conservation
Wardens Say

Bass fishing on Lake Winnebago is better now than it has been for many years, according to state conservation wardens who have been making inspection trips along the east shore of the lake this summer. They claim that fishermen are catching small-mouth black bass along the east shore of the lake in large quantities.

Despite the fact that the sturgeon catch last winter during the first open season in many years was poor, wardens were told by residents along the lake shore that the big fish are numerous this year and are frequently seen jumping out of the water.

The feeding grounds for sturgeon extend along the east side of the lake from Sandy beach north Stockbridge. There are outcroppings of limestone formation in the bed of the lake, a condition attractive to the rock sturgeon, the species found in these waters, they say.

5 Enrolled in Junior Life Saving Class

Five boys have enrolled in the second junior life saving class at the Appleton Y. M. C. A., according to W. S. Ryan, physical director. The class begins Wednesday afternoon and it is expected that the group will number about 10.

Those signed up for the new class include Henry Johnson, Edwin Bayley, Earl Schreiner, Robert Thom and Loyd Cook.

"B" classes in races held in Cincinnati in June.

There will be the usual number of "hell-divers" among them George Boller, who never fails to treat the crowd with a perfect spill, followed closely by Herman Breitersbach, Art Jacobs and one of the Oconomowoc Corporation racers. Young Raab also will entertain with a full jack-knife twist.

Many Centuries Of Struggle Back Of War Threats

Savage Fights of Past Inflame War Spirit in South America

Behind the war urge sweeping Bolivia and Paraguay in the latest crisis to grip South America's "dark and bloody ground" lies a background of implacable hatreds nourished by centuries of struggle and death.

Land-locked Bolivia, looking around restlessly for a permanent pathway to the sea, is carrying on a struggle that dates back for generations. Descendants of the fierce and aggressive Incas, intermixed with Pizarro's Spanish Conquistadors, the Bolivians are an isolated race, always in fear of being cut off from the pathways of commerce.

Paraguay, not yet recovered from a war that wiped out two-thirds of her population, also is animated by a heritage of mixed blood in which Indian ancestry predominates.

Not only is Bolivia cut off from the sea, but the northern section of the republic is almost inaccessible from the south. To reach the Pacific, tin and silver from her mines must cross Peru or Chile. Rubber and crops from the northern and southeastern sections must go out by way of the Paraguay river to Buenos Aires. Yet it is easier to enter from the Indians of the quechua

Bolivia from either ocean than to go from either of these regions to the other.

Along the Peru border live the Quichas, an Indian race once ruled by the Incas and now living in the 12,000-foot high plains of the Andean foothills. They are poor and live in miserable squalor. Peonage or debt slavery is general.

The dominant class in Bolivia is the Cholo group, made up of descendants of mixed Spanish and Indian ancestry. They are the shopkeepers and politicians, generally wealthy.

La Paz, the present capital, is the highest capital in the world. The legal capital is Sucre, farther south, but the government moved to La Paz when the railway made it the principal city.

The chief Indian tribes, the Quichas and the Aymaras, are given to drugs. They chew coca leaves and drink chicha, dulling the senses to all save savagery.

Between Bolivia and Paraguay, in the angle formed by the Paraguay and Pilcomayo rivers, lies the Grand Chaco a searing tropical wilderness, only half explored and tenanted by Indians who have never been anything else but savages.

Both Bolivia and Paraguay claim extensive and conflicting rights in this area—Bolivia because it permits a definite pathway to the Paraguay river and the Atlantic—Paraguay because of the income derived from timber found in the swamp land.

The Chaco Boreal, up end of the disputed triangle, is the section under dispute in the present conflict. So little is really known of the region that strange tales are heard of the Indians of the quechua

N. E. Wisconsin Fair To Open August 27

The 1932 northeastern Wisconsin fair will open Saturday, Aug. 27, at the fair grounds at West DePere with special attractions scheduled for each of the four days.

Sunday's program will feature three horse races: "Schoolboy" Sensations of 1932, and the Barnes-Carruthers four-act show. The program is being held at this time to enable persons who cannot attend during the week to see the events on Sunday.

Green Bay and DePere day is scheduled for Monday and Brownsville day will be Tuesday. Merchants and business men in Green Bay and DePere have been requested to close their stores for the Monday program. County day features a nickel day for the children, horse racing and the annual horse pulling contest.

Ralph Wiswell, Elkhorn, is the starter for the horse races this year.

Boise, Id.—An air line for miners has been started here by A. A. Bennett and C. Walker. The line will run freight and passenger service into the more isolated mining communities, and it is thought, will open new territory to prospectors.

Oshkosh Man Sent to Jail For Car Theft

Arrest Made When Officers Remember License Number

Long memories of Officers Alfred Gotha and Earl Thomas of Appleton police force have landed John Kosup, 138 Cedar-st., Oshkosh, in state's prison at Waupun. Kosup was sentenced to Waupun this morning when he pleaded guilty to driving an automobile without the owner's consent and having stolen property in his possession. He was given one to three years on each count the sentences to run concurrently.

Saturday night the two officers saw Kosup driving a coupe bearing a Wisconsin license 21-046 of 1932 issue. They recalled the plates had been taken from a Ford roadster stolen from Raymond Arnold, Appleton, last December, and later recovered. Kosup was taken into custody on S. John-st.

Brought to the police station, Kosup confessed the theft of Arnold's roadster on the night of Dec. 28, 1931, and admitted that he stole the coupe at Uniontown, Pa., where he attended an engineering school.

An investigation revealed that the Pennsylvania car was stolen from a Dr. Griffiths in Uniontown. Kosup at first denied the theft of the machine, claiming that he bought it from the Westside Motor Company in Pittsburgh.

Seymour Man Is Injured in Crash

Norbert Paulie Suffers Fractured Leg When Truck Hits Car

Norbert Paulie, 30, Seymour, driver of a truck for the M. J. Haliday meat market at Seymour, suffered a fractured leg at the knee about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon when his truck collided with another car. The accident happened on Highway 35 about five miles south of Seymour. Paulie said the car failed to stop for an arterial.

Paulie was on his way to Neenah and Milwaukee to deliver meats to the Haliday market there. He was taken to St. Vincent hospital at Green Bay where the leg was placed in a cast and he was expected to go home today.

The other car in the accident was driven by Henry E. Protzmann, Milwaukee. The only occupant of the car injured was Mrs. Henry Protzmann, 63, who suffered a shoulder injury which was taken care of at the Green Bay hospital and she was expected to leave today.

Thorval Johnson, 75-year-old resident of Neenah, Shawano-co., is in a critical condition at St. Vincent's hospital at Green Bay as the result of having been struck on County Trunk W. in front of the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ludwig Olsen, Sunday evening, by a car driven by Thomas Thorson, town of Waubeck, also in Shawano-co.

His injuries included a double fracture of the leg and an injury to the head the extent of which has not been determined. He has been in a semi-conscious condition since the accident.

Because of Johnson's advanced age, his condition is regarded as critical, and physicians hold little hope for his recovery.

The youth in the meantime had hitch hiked his way to Kenosha and returned home with his brother-in-law whom he knew was planning to drive to Appleton.

Plucky Badger Puts Up Strenuous Fight Against Men and Dog

A fully grown badger weighing more than fifty pounds was captured by W. B. Riehl and his son Lloyd on their farm near Center Valley Monday morning after considerable excitement.

Mr. Riehl was taking the cows to pasture when the dog cornered the animal in the lane near the cornfield. Seizing a club, he ran to the dog's assistance, but was rather disconcerted when the beast turned on him. However, as the badger is a slow and clumsy animal, he managed to hold it in check until Lloyd came to his aid and the two, assisted by the dog poked and shoved the snarling beast into the silo, ten rods away, where it was safely imprisoned.

The badger, once fairly numerous in Wisconsin, has become almost extinct and few have been reported in the neighborhood in recent years. It is related to both the bear and the weasel. It has very strong, short legs, with long claws on its fore feet and is a remarkable digger, burrowing ahead of dogs and men so rapidly that it is almost impossible to dig them out of their burrows. It is nocturnal in its habits and comes forth from its den at night to feed on vegetables and small mammals.

Seek Third Bids For Street Lights

City Wants Figures for Ornamental Lights on Three Streets

For the third time, the city is soliciting sealed bids on labor and material for the installation of an ornamental lighting system on N. Superior-st., N. Appleton-st. and W. Washington-st. Hitherto, technical difficulties have made it inadvisable to award the contract.

Separate bids will be received on the installation of lights on each street, and bids will be accepted on the installation on all three streets as a single job. The lighting standards are to be the same as or similar to the pole now erected on N. Superior-st. near the Appleton Post-Crescent building.

The N. Superior-st. system is to extend from W. College-ave to the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks, the N. Appleton-st. one from W. Lawrence-st. to the tracks, and the W. Washington-st. system from N. Appleton-st. to the west end of the new postoffice building.

Wife Divorced From Comedian

All-Night Absences From Home Chief Cause Of Action

Los Angeles.—The asserted nocturnal habits of Joseph F. (Buster) Keaton, solemn-faced film comedian, which kept him away from home fires several times a week, have cost him his wife.

Accompanied by her sister, Constance Talmadge Nether, Mrs. Natalie Keaton came to court and quietly testified at a divorce hearing of the neglect, the worry and the trouble she had been caused by the antics of her husband.

"My husband was impossible," testified Mrs. Keaton. "He would stay away from home, many times all night, and would not tell me where he had been. It upset me terribly. I could not sleep and would pace the floor for hours."

Mrs. Nether corroborated the testimony of her sister, declaring that Mrs. Keaton frequently telephoned her in the middle of the night, asking her to come over and stay with her because Buster was not at home.

The incident of the airplane ride on which Buster took his two sons, Joseph, 10, and Robert, 8, was related by Mrs. Keaton as having caused her worry.

"We had quarreled all night," she said. "I had gone to my mother. He got the children up at 5 o'clock in the morning. The nurse called them at San Diego. Buster said the boys were as much his as mine and he would do as he pleased with them."

After listening to the testimony of Mrs. Keaton and Mrs. Nether, Superior Judge Joseph Sproul granted her a divorce and approved an agreement whereby the mother was given custody of the two boys and $300 monthly for their support. The terms of a property settlement were not revealed.

The couple were married in New York May 31, 1921.

The Steenis log cabin, accepted by the park board at a meeting held Monday afternoon, will be placed in the City park, it was decided yesterday. Arrangements will be made to move it immediately.

While other parks had been suggested as a location for the old cabin, the board felt more people would visit it in the city park, and that the upkeep would be easier in the downtown park.

The cabin will be returned to its original form with the removal of the siding and in other ways it will be rehabilitated. Use of it as a museum for antiques and relics was suggested, but no definite action was taken.

Kohler Assails LaFollette for Broken Pledges

Honesty in State Government Fundamental Issue, He Declares

scheme which resulted in landscaping rural Wisconsin with those mountainous roller coasters called overhead grade crossings and which is taxing the citizens of Wisconsin an extra 2 cents per gallon of gasoline.

"Not only did he fail to provide employment for any appreciable number of men within the time promised, but even now, a year and a half later, the grade crossing projects have been an insignificant factor in relieving unemployment."

Problems Not Solved

"I am in favor of protecting dangerous crossings and I applaud all sensible measures to provide jobs on needed public works for the unemployed, but this highly advertised program did little to solve either problem."

Referring to the "promises of the present governor to help the farmer and put him on the high road to prosperity," Mr. Kohler said "we at Kohler farm some land, and under present conditions of the farm market we find it impossible to pay operating expenses, for the price we are receiving is from 45 to 65 percent below those of two years ago."

"This comparison," the former governor said, "illustrates how woefully the present administration has failed to keep its implied promise to improve the economic condition of Wisconsin farmers."

"In June of 1930," Mr. Kohler said, "Governor LaFollette made the unqualified assertion: 'Progressives are opposed to chain banks, and we propose to put an end to it in Wisconsin.'"

"What have they done to redeem this pledge? Nothing, but to repeat it in this year's platform."

"One of the most sinister things in the record of the present administration," the former governor declared, "is the turning over of the highway activities to a political ring."

Road-Building Politics

"Highway construction and maintenance represent the largest single class of disbursements by the state government, and offer unusual opportunities for a political machine."

"The present administration introduced in the 1931 legislature a highway bill which was one of the most drastic and dangerous measures ever enacted in Wisconsin. The most remarkable provision by far of this 1931 highway bill was the creation of the so-called unemployment relief commission."

"If you think this body has charge only of grade crossings, you may be interested to know it has charge under the law to control the work on trunk highways and on bridges, and quoting from the law itself 'all other construction by the state which may be carried out so as to afford emergency relief for unemployment, subject to the approval of the governor.'"

"The law expressly empowers the unemployment relief commission to make contracts and purchases without competitive bidding."

"What a tremendously powerful weapon to put into the hands of this political body."

The former governor pointed to the 1930 highway record, declaring that with about $22,000,000 the highway revenues with cement costing $1.03 per barrel net 439 miles of concrete pavement was built. In 1932, he said, with revenues approximating $33,000,000 and with the price of cement reduced to $.70 per barrel net, the construction, according to the administration's own figures, will not exceed 325 miles of concrete. He declared the reduction of mileage was not offset by a greater mileage of other types of road.

"Governmental Scandal"

"The Capital City bank and the 'Boyd cases,'" Mr. Kohler said, "have every appearance of a disheartening governmental scandal of the type the people of the state are entitled to a full explanation. So far that explanation has not been made."

"Citizens of Wisconsin want to know why the state annuity investment fund was asked to risk some of the state trust funds in questionable bonds of the Capital City bank."

"They want to know why over $400,000 of state money was deposited in that bank during the last 14 days before it failed."

"In the Boyd case, a law partner of the present governor and other directors of the Boyd company, are under indictment for embezzlement. The securities division of the Public Service commission should have been instructed to cooperate with the district attorney of Dane-co to protect the creditors and prosecute such officers as may have violated the law. The people of the state will want to know whether such co-operation was given."

Taking up the subject of taxation, Mr. Kohler said:

"I warn you that if you do not check this present orgy of sucking the economic life blood from a people already bled white, tax delinquency and bankruptcy will throw much of the land and a large part of the enterprises into the hands of the government, while destitution and the impossibility of conducting a farm or a business with profit will make thousands of people nothing better than wards of the state."

Sees More Bureaus

"As this happens, the number of state functionaries will grow, bureaus and commissions will increasingly multiply and flourish, the man at the top will be a dictator, and the man at the bottom will be a forgotten man indeed. This is the logical conclusion to the activities of the LaFollette regime and it is the goal toward which they are determined to march."

Mr. Kohler compared expenditures of the fiscal year just ended, and the fiscal year which fell entirely within his own administration. During his fiscal year, Mr. Kohler said net disbursements of all state funds were $60,347,000 as compared with disbursements of

Probe Solicitation of Enrollments for School

The Appleton Chamber of Commerce is investigating the solicitation of enrollments for the Fairleigh Dickinson University, Inc., of Toledo, Ohio, on farms in this vicinity. A solicitor who signs his name, R. L. Sims, visited two farms near here last week and collected $25 down payments.

His guarantee that the school will place girl students in the office of the Fox River Paper Co. at a salary of $15.50 per week has been denied by officials of the firm, who claim they have never heard of the plan.

New Districting May Help Cause Of Republicans

Reapportionment May Mean Possible G. O. P. Gain of 12 Votes

Washington.—(P)—Reapportionment of house representation has resulted in a possible Republican gain of 12 votes in the new electoral college.

This big shift in the voting strength of 32 states may have unusual bearing on the outcome of the approaching presidential election.

It was brought about by the transfer of 27 congressional seats from 21 to 11 through reapportionment on the basis of the 1930 census.

Thirteen normally Republican states lost 15 seats but seven gained 21 increasing their total by 6. Eight normally Democratic states lost 12 and four gained 6, decreasing their total by six. That leaves a net Republican gain of 12.

With this apparent gain, and under ordinary political conditions, the Republicans would be at an advantage in a close contest between President Hoover and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Should this eventuate, the election result might be thrown into dispute when the house and senate convene on the second Wednesday of next February to poll the electoral college votes. They number 531, representing the 435 house and 96 senate seats.

Provisions of Law

Under the constitution, congress is required to reapportion the representatives every 10 years on the basis of population and each state receives as many electoral votes as it has representatives and senators. A majority of the various states' electoral votes elects a president.

The Republicans gained nine votes in President Hoover's normal four in Michigan; two each in New Jersey, New York and Ohio, and one each in Connecticut and Washington. But in staunch Republican states they suffered, losing two each in Iowa and Pennsylvania, and one each in Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Rhode Island, North and South Dakota, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Democratic gains included three in Texas, and one each in North Carolina, Oklahoma and Florida. Their losses included three in Missouri, two each in Georgia and Kentucky, and one each in Alabama, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

The congress that will be elected under the reapportionment in November does not come into being until March 4, and it is the lame duck session of the present congress that will pass upon the electoral votes of the new college.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

One application for a marriage license was made Monday afternoon to John E. Hantschel, county clerk. The application was made by Arthur A. Hooyman, Little Chute and Gladys Little, Appleton.

LaFollette administration of more than $80,000,000.

"It is clear," Mr. Kohler said, "that the present LaFollette regime at Madison has been the most flagrantly extravagant administration in the history of Wisconsin's statehood."

Schlafer in Business Here 57 Years Today

Appleton has changed considerably since I started in business 57 years ago today," O. P. Schlafer, 74, of the Schlafer Hardware Co. declared this morning chuckling as he recalled Appleton in the early seventies.

Mr. Schlafer, the oldest business man in the city from the standpoint of consecutive years of activity, came to Appleton in 1876. The town then had a dirt crusted wagon road for its main street and deep, rugged woods on its outskirts.

"Yes I remember the early stores that were set up one step from the wooden sidewalks," he said. "We used lanterns for light in those days and our store had 12 that had to be cleaned, oiled, trimmed and polished before we started in to work."

"We worked from 7 o'clock in the morning until 9 every night, because the stores were always open at night. Women wore hoop skirts and bustles and farmers came to town behind their oxen and horse carts."

Mr. Schlafer started in the hardware business in the old Bailey and Ballard Hardware store in the west side of the building where the present Woolworth store now stands on E. College-ave. In 1879 he became a member of the firm, buying out the Ballard interest. The store was known until 1883 as D. B. Bailey and Co. In the spring of 1883 Mr. Schlafer bought out A. A. Babcock, then one of the oldest hardware men in the small city. This store was in the second building from the southeast corner of Appleton-st. and W. College-ave. In the following fall the firm changed from O. P. Schlafer Co. to Schlafer and Tesch and still later that year to Schlafer, Bard and Tesch. The last firm was in business in a building which stood where Downer's Drug store is now located.

Since 1891 the Schlafer Hardware Co., has been in business on the present site, moving from the store further east.

It Is Said--

That whether it likes it or not, Appleton seems to be spotted for decorated curb stones. Several weeks ago the common council voted to refuse permission to all persons seeking permits to paint house numbers on curb stones, but Mayor John Goodland, Jr., is sure that all the house-number painters in the country are in league to give Appleton curb numbers whether it will or no. Almost daily some person wielding a paint brush and a stencil comes to the mayor's office with the same request—and they all get the same answer.

That a dog's life is a hard one . . . but according to an Appleton shop owner, some dogs are pretty well cared for even in a fashionable sense. One woman, with a fair puppy, is a regular customer at this store for exquisite bars of perfumed soap with the dog's name printed on the top of each bar.

Butter Shipments Exceed Those of All Substitutes

Rails Get $12,780,835 Freight Revenue From Dairy Product

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—The total amount of butter shipped on class I steam railways in the United States during the calendar year 1931 exceeded the butter and margarine so transported by a ratio of more than 25 to 1.

A total of 1,506,214 tons of butter was transported by railroads in this country in 1931 creating a freight revenue for the carriers of $12,780,835. Butterine and margarine transported by railroads during the same period equaled $2,883 tons and provided $410,452 in revenue.

Cheese amounting to 579,910 tons was carried providing $3,282,726 in revenue.

Cheese and butter shipments together made up about one-ninth, or 11.5 percent, of the 39,548,814 tons of freight carried under the class I railroads in 1931.

The tonnage total for products of agriculture was the lowest in 10 years just as were all the 1931 totals for agricultural products, mineral products, forest products, manufactures, etc., showing vividly the inroads of truck transportation. Comparative figures by year are not available for individual commodities.

Total freight loadings for the year of other products of interest to the carrier are as follows:

Potatoes, 12,982,315 tons providing $44,438,701 freight revenue.

Cabbages, 1,532,503 tons, $6,845,226 freight revenue.

Leaf tobacco, 1,365,242 tons, $6,517,740 revenue.

Hay and alfalfa, 3,688,673 tons, $10,703,671 revenue.

Packing house products, 2,499,678 tons, $12,784,295 revenue.

Fresh meats, not otherwise listed, 6,799,817 tons, $41,978,594 revenue.

The furniture is fashioned of papers in tight rolls of varying sizes. The shade on the bridge lamp is made from a comic supplement.

ARE YOU PAYING COMPLETE FIRE COVERAGE

and NOT GETTING IT?

"... When interviewed after the fire, Mr. ———, President of the ——— Manufacturing Co., stated that the loss was only partly covered by insurance..."

This is one of the tragedies of business... and so unnecessary. Because of the substantial savings in insurance costs which the Mill Owners makes available to owners of select properties, many business institutions can secure complete fire insurance coverage for what they pay for only partial coverage at established non-mutual company rates.

Whatever the type of your property, if it is a select risk, the Mill Owners offers you either a saving on your insurance cost or additional coverage at the same cost. For over fifty-seven years, this strong mutual company has been furnishing this type of insurance to a large number of outstanding business and public institutions of the country. It will pay you to investigate.

Estimate $1,000 Will be Saved by Direct Purchases

Fuel Bill Will be Cut by $1 Per Ton. Superintendent Estimates

Decision by the board of education last week to purchase fuel direct from the docks of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron and Coal Co., at Green Bay will result in an approximate saving of $1,000 next year, it is estimated by B. J. Rohan, superintendent of schools.

It is possible that the coal bill next year may be greater than last, Mr. Rohan pointed out, since the amount of fuel depends entirely upon the severity of the winter. The coal will cost approximately $1 per ton less under this new method of purchase, which means that of the same amount of fuel, 1,487 tons, is used next year as last approximately $1,500 will be saved.

The coal will be shipped by railroad from the docks at Green Bay into the yards of the various local dealers, who will take charge of hauling the fuel to the city schools. The first shipment of between 700 and 800 tons is expected this week, according to W. F. Eggert, superintendent of buildings.

Last year 1,487 tons of coal were used at $7.89 per ton, costing $11,731.63. The various schools used the following tonnage: senior high school, 137 tons; Roosevelt junior high school, 238 tons; Wilson junior high school, 213 tons; McKinley junior high school, 148 tons; Washington school, 147 tons; Franklin school, 77 tons; Columbus school, 101 tons; Jefferson school, 139 tons; Edison school, 138 tons; Richmond school, 138 tons; Lincoln school, 85 tons.

Child, 2, Weighs Half As Much As Its Mother

Minneapolis — (AP) — When a stranger knocks at the home of Mrs. Thomas Leslie and she comes to the door, she is always prepared for a dialogue like this:

"Is your mother home?"

"I'm the mother here."

Mrs. Leslie is only a little over three feet, six inches tall. Her daughter, who is 23 months old, weighs half as much as she does and is as tall as an average child of her age.

Mrs. Leslie, once a trouper with a midget act, presides over her home alone, makes most of her child's clothing and prepares meals for her husband, who is nearly six feet tall.

Years ago she did all the cooking for her father and seven brothers, all over six feet, so she is familiar with household activities.

"THE SLOUGH OF DESPOND"

Come and gather around the festive board all croakers, crepe-hangers, kill-joys and the dismal, dreary, somber, dark and gloomy, and those who have melancholia, hypochondria, or lachrymose, bilious or jaundiced attacks, and everyone with grim visage, wan expression, or glum, sulky, mopish ways, the broken-hearted and those disgusted with life and long since given up to despair and morbidity.

We call the attention of all such, those who sell their country short and who know it's going to the bow-wows or mad dogs, to the great spectacle which they have witnessed if their sight has not been obfuscated with tears.

They have witnessed a nation with nearly four million men entitled to a bonus, all of them interested in its immediate payment naturally enough, and perhaps half a million needing it badly, very badly, because that is the estimate of those in want and approaching destitution, resist, stoutly, stiffly, sternly, every effort to hi-jack or black-jack it.

For some months ago there went up from Washington a mighty call. It was a call to these half million, particularly, to come to Washington and raise the devil. A few called legitimately, that is they couldn't control their emotions or failed to think the thing out. Many called because they thought it was good politics. Some called because anger, hatred, disappointment, and pure cussedness in general, distilled a toxin in the human system as often to poison the judgment so that men get glee out of confusion, disorder, destruction and general distemper.

The calls were printed in thousands of newspapers. They went into every hamlet in the land.

But out of the half million called only 4 per cent answered. The other 96 per cent had too much brains. They knew their organizations were either working for the cash payment, or in some instances, had turned thumbs down on it for the present. Also they were wise to the ways of politics. They had heard about gold bricks before.

But now observe the 20,000 that went to Washington. Traveling in this land is easy. All you have to do is stand out on the road and wave your hand in the right direction.

Communists thought this would be a soft bunch for them. But communists are dumb or they couldn't be communists. A careful survey of what transpired indicates that nearly all the violence was caused by men who had never worn uniforms, men who would probably shiver in fear if they got into one. And yet these 20,000 were destitute. Many of them had wives and children along. There were present all those considerations that lead to violence if men are so inclined.

These weren't. Despite the hardships and the miseries they faced they permitted that part of their head above their ears to control their actions.

Those who are given to getting the lugubrious blues better keep this example in mind. It spells wonders for the future of America. It shows the restraint of its people, the advantages of education and training. It pictures America, solid, temperate, calm, moderate.

Such a people have only begun to accomplish what is in them.

A ONE-GIRL TRACK TEAM

If the rules governing the Olympic games did not forbid a contestant entering more than three events, the United States could pin its faith on nineteen year old Babe Didrickson of Dallas, Texas, to carry off feminine honors.

Babe is a track team wrapped up in one package. Given the opportunity she could probably win the Olympic games single handed and single footed. She started out by winning the javelin throw, hurling the spear nearly ten feet better than the National A. A. U. record. Babe apologetically claimed the javelin slipped, but had it not done so, it might well have flown outside the stadium.

She then broke another record by running her trial heat in the 80 meter high hurdles in record time, reducing the former world and Olympic record of 12.2 seconds to 11.8 seconds. The next day she won the final, breaking her record of the previous day by another tenth of a second.

Her third event is the high jump and she is again expected to astonish the athletes of all nations competing in the contests at Los Angeles.

Not only can Babe (which name she prefers) hurl the javelin, put the shot, run and jump, but she is proficient in swimming, diving, golf and rifle shooting. She excels at basketball, plays a good game of baseball and has thrown a baseball 296 feet.

Should they let Miss Didrickson loose in events other than those in which she is entered, the rest of the world's female athletes would doubtless be fighting it out for place and show. As it is, she is blazing a record in feminine athletics that will be hard to equal.

"BY THEIR FRUITS, —"

"I did not have much trouble in convincing the agitation propaganda bureau that this was important work and the sooner we strip the bourgeois and the white collar stuffs of their faith in banks the sooner we will bring about the unrest that will lead to the revolution."

Such is one of the paragraphs of a communistic report in this country.

A bank in Cleveland found that the communists employed several hundred to make small deposits and at a given hour on a given day all stormed the bank for their money, filling the institution and spreading out upon the street so that rumors of a run spread wildly as corroboration to telephone messages whereby hundreds of others were told over the wire the day before of the impending collapse.

It is not going to be easy for history to correctly place the communist in America. The glittering eye of a maniac and the venomous tongue of a serpent, with hell in his heart and hatred smothering his poor, disordered brain he is more fit for an asylum than a jail, yet he realizes full well that "no sword bites so fiercely as an evil tongue," and appears to correctly gauge the destructive extent of wild rumor when unleashed upon the winds that carry truthful reports, too of depressing news.

The campaigns inaugurated by these vicious and poisonous minds have invariably brought blank ruin and stark misery to the humbler classes whom they have affected to stand by.

Many banks that have been forced to close through slander's mendacious tales have been located in workers neighborhoods depending for their deposits upon people who have paid little attention to bank statements, reserves in cash and bonds and the story of stability that may be read therein.

Businessmen more often are familiar with their bank's internal affairs and the principles of care or laxity that have directed its conduct and have been difficult to move into the frenzy of a run.

What sort of a nation, what sort of a society, can anyone expect to rear upon such perfidy?

The flag of course would be red for the human blood spilled. The emblem would be the dagger, convenient to stab into an unsuspecting back. The eagle would be displaced by the hyena, foul, slinking and treacherous; the White House would be some convenient abode of madmen; whereas a verse of Thompson would do as a statement of principles:

"The whispered tale,
That like the fabled Nile, no fountain knows;
Fair faced deceit, whose wily concious eye
N'er looks direct; the tongue that Licks the dust,
But, when it safely dares, as prompt to sting."

KANSAS HAS ITS GENERAL DAWES

Mrs. Ida Watkins runs a farm in Kansas. Kansas women speak their minds.

Before congressmen who were investigating the effect of government interference with private business she defiantly rolled up her sleeves exposed brown and toil-hardened arms and in this fighting posture declared:

"I just want to kick the devil out of the Farm Board. I draw the line on the doggone, damnable government interference with our affairs."

It will be good to see the women of the nation raise themselves over this self-same government interference. Mrs. Watkins has had some experience. It isn't swivel-chair experience.

It takes a female General Dawes to render a plain and concise opinion, the meaning of which is perfectly free from ambiguity.

Opinions Of Others

MR. GARNER "POURS IT ON"

Much has been said in recent years about enlarging the functions of the vice president. Without any warning, but doubtless after deep thought, Mr. Garner is extending to enhance the importance of a candidate for vice president. In this pleasing task he sometimes seems to forget that he is not actually running for president; that is not the "fir timber to deal with Herbert Hoover" that was selected at Chicago. He is "pouring it on" to the great delight of Texas. The delight of Mr. Roosevelt and the Eastern Democrats, of conservative Democrats everywhere, of all who do not know how to make allowances for the exuberances of Mr. Garner's generous nature and the beauties of his Southern stump oratory, may be imagined.

Mr. Garner's argument may be calculated for minds already convinced, but to audiences that don't take passion for logic it has no other merit than its sincerity. He modestly observes that he holds "the most powerful position in this government" except that of the president. Why will he be so tyrannous as to use his strength like a giant? Why will he not be merciful and spare Mr. Hoover and Governor Roosevelt a good deal? Mr. Garner should remember that he is now not merely the cynosure of the Lone Star State. It is not possible for him to adapt himself somewhat to the feelings and prejudices of Democrats of the great industrial and commercial states? Even that sink of iniquity, "Wall Street," has not sinned too grievously to be pardoned, temporarily, by the searchers for campaign funds in the leanest of years.—New York Times.

Well, if Willy can figure out a way to sell pre-war stuff at a buck a quart, why should HE be worried about a reporter's job? Reporters are interested in pre-war stuff and all that, but a reporter, getting a dollar is a bigger job than locating a drink.

News as this was written indicated that the stock market was suffering from another attack of climbing. Well, how would YOU feel, if, after living in the basement a couple of years, you started out to climb the Empire State building? Sure—scared to come down.

The talk is now that the Hohenzollern monarchy may be restored in Germany if Adolf Hitler and a few of his pals get their way. There is, however, one fly in the ointment which would cause trouble. Hitler wants the crown prince yet the ex-Kaiser is still very much alive and kicking. Hoch!

BALLADE OF THE UNWANTED BRIDGE PLAYER

I know what to do with an ace.
I know what a two-bid intends.
With all methods I've kept quite apace.
But still I am shunned by my friends.
Since on more than good-nature depends
A bridge player's love and regards
Who draws me in loss surely ends.
For I never hold any cards.

I sit with a smile on my face
As one who good humor pretends.
If I move to the high winner's place
My luck neither changes nor mends.
I am one who ill-fortune attends
To play with me none condescends.
For I never hold any cards.

I may have of dumbness a trace,
But whose wit's so great that he lends?
My hands are reviewed with ill-grace.
Every six-spot I put down offends.
My partner a vicious look sends,
He would stop me with flints and with shards
Because my hand with his never blends.
For I never hold any cards.

L'Envoi
Prince, no one my failing defends.
I am shunned by my dearest of pards.
Vain the bidding the blue book commands.
For I never hold any cards.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

THE INFANTILE PARALYSIS SCARE

Somewhere or other there is almost always a poliomylitis scare, I infer from the inquiries coming in from anxious parents.

We have good reason to believe, tho we do not yet know definitely, that this disease is a respiratory infection, that is, the germ or virus of the disease is usually carried from one person to another in the secretions from mouth, nose or throat of the patient or a healthy carrier, just as diphtheria or measles or whooping cough is spread.

I may do no good, but it does no harm anyhow, to use a simple solution of a heaping teaspoonful of boric acid in the pint of boiled water as a mouth wash or gargle or nasal spray three or more times a day, if there is a local outbreak of infantile paralysis. I don't know whether this will prevent catching the disease, but I do know that such a solution is as efficient as any known antiseptic preparation one can use for such a purpose.

The attack of poliomylitis (infantile paralysis) begins very much like ordinary acute sore throat, gripe, coryza or other crip (Common Respiratory Infection). After a few days of such mildly feverish illness the patient complains of pain or tenderness or heaviness or weakness in some particular muscle group, usually in one limb, and the limb gradually becomes weak or paralyzed, tho generally only partially powerless, that is, it is not entirely immovable.

The disease is infectious or communicable only during the feverish stage, say the first week or ten days of the illness. After that, the paralysis remains for weeks or months, but the condition is no longer infectious and the patient is not a menace to anybody. The paralysis or paresis (weakness) of the affected muscle group is merely the aftermath or result of the illness, and is not in any sense an illness in itself.

Whether the victim fully recovers the use of the affected muscles or only partly regains control or fails to show any improvement, there is no reason in the world why the general physical and mental health should not be quite as sound as tho no attack of infantile paralysis had occurred.

The great remedy in the stage of invasion is rest. Most intelligent folk now know that a day in bed is the best first and treatment for most acute illnesses. Well, if the illness happens to be acute poliomylitis, then the first day in bed is more potent for preventing paralysis or for limiting it to a mild or a temporary paresis than is any serum or other remedy as yet discovered.

I hope all parents who have appealed to me for advice about this will heed the advice I give. Here it is: At all times, even if there is no immediate poliomylitis scare, give your child the benefit of the doubt—send him to bed and keep him there for at least twenty-four hours whenever he manifests any symptoms of crip, or if you're mulish about it, then a "cold." You never can tell, neither can a doctor, and not even a nurse doubling in the role of little tin doctor, what such an illness will turn out to be.

If you are still in doubt whether the child is ill after he has remained in bed for 24 hours, then as a good parent you must (1) either keep him in bed another 24 hours or (2) call on your physician at once.

Iodin Ration

Please send me the new edition of the Iodin ration, to restore hair. I have more pep than hair (A. G. H.).

Answer—The new edition restores no more hair than the old edition did. At that a suitable Iodin ration may postpone greying and falling of the hair. Enclose stamped addressed envelope and ask for instructions for taking an Iodin ration.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

S AID Duncy, "This grafie is fine. I only wish that it was mine. I think that I could ride on it and gee, that would be fun."

"Just look! I've blown it way up high. It's fat enough to make it sigh. In fact, it is so plump I do not think that it could run."

This made the old balloon man smile and he replied, "Well, after while we'll see what that grafie can do. Right now we all must work."

"You've been a big help, bless your soul, in finding balloons with little holes. I'm sure none of you Tynmites, at this time, want to shrink."

"Of course we don't," kind Scouty said. "We're very glad to go ahead until the job is finished. Then, perhaps, we'll have some fun."

"My motto is, 'don't start a task that you can't finish. All I ask is that you let us play a while as soon as we are done.'"

Just then there came a sudden noise that frightened all the little boys. A large balloon that Winky had was blown up far too high.

"My goodness," he exclaimed, "it's flat. I'm sorry that I busted that. I'll be a bit more careful when some other ones I try."

"Bring on more animals for me," cried Duncy. "I just love to see the way they look when they're blown up. Say, how about a cow?"

"I'll bet the horns would be a sight if I should fill them out just right. I have enough wind left, I'm sure, so bring it on right now."

He blew the cow up nice and big and then exclaimed, "Here you a pig? If so, let someone ride on that. 'Twill be a sight to see."

The man replied, "Whr, sure, my son. You'll see a lot before we're done. In fact, I've animals enough for a menagerie."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Two Kinds Of Opinion

As a rule I find your teachings excellent, but I disagree absolutely with you about one thing. I like to brush my teeth regularly. (Miss M. B.)

Answer—That is a matter of individual taste, not opinion. I see no objection to brushing the teeth if one likes to do it. As a layman you are probably not qualified to have Mussolini now constitutes a majority of the Italian cabinet, having taken over six more places. If he keeps that up, a cabinet conference will soon be just Mussolini talking to himself.

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — One of the highlights of that memorable Friday night of the democratic national convention when California switched to Roosevelt was the happy situation in which Mayor James M. Curley of Boston found himself.

Curley had been in a tough spot during the convention. An original Roosevelt man, he went to Chicago pretty much alone. Massachusetts' 36 strong—was frevent in its support of Al Smith. They stuck with him until the end.

By skillful maneuvering, Curley got himself seated in the convention as a member of the Porto Rican delegation.

But at that it was a rather disconsolate Mr. Curley. After that third ballot even some stout Roosevelt hearts began to waver.

It looked as if the New York governor might after all be stopped.

McAdoo Starts It

There were a lot of people on that convention floor—and some of the leaders at that—who were unconsciously of what William Gibbs McAdoo had in the back of his head.

Rumor had it that not even Frank Hague of Jersey City, Smith's floor manager, knew what was coming; that when he was tipped off just a short while before in the stadium he refused to believe it.

Those who saw the face of Jim Curley after McAdoo's famous statement that California had come to Chicago to nominate the new President of the United States and not to deadlock the convention, will never forget the sight.

His Hour Of Triumph

He had left Boston with cheers for Al Smith ringing in his ears. He had sat in the Chicago stadium for almost a week, the target of hostile glances from the 36 delegates grouped under the Massachusetts state banner. He knew that he could return to Boston now with his head high.

Truly it was his hour of triumph. And he made the most of it.

Power Rate Investigation

Editor Appleton Post-Crescent—Your editorial "Power and Light Rates" published in the Post-Crescent on Friday, August 5, conveys to the average reader, not familiar with the whole situation, an impression that a great injustice would be committed against the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. were the Wisconsin Public Service Commission petitioned by a council resolution to conduct an investigation here on power and gas rates; also, that the council performed a commendable and heroic deed in not letting itself be precipitated into a "hasty" adoption of that resolution.

Twice, already, had this resolution been deferred by the council and with the only excuse to give the Power Co. a chance to bring in a proposal. This proposal was submitted to the council, cleverly removed from the public eye in the committee of the whole and after 30 days of careful contemplation. What was this proposal? A plea to the council not to adopt the resolution. A parading of figures intermingled freely with abuse aimed at the introducer of the resolution and a final assertion that the Power Co. would do nothing in the matter but rather fight it with all resources at the disposal of the company. So why any more futile delays? According to your statements and the statements of the Power representative it is a crime to even hint that the utility rates are high here in Appleton it also would be folly to even investigate the situation. Every time this question comes up there is a brazen, bold and rough-shod stampede with the intention to crush every opposition before it gains momentum. The so-called reasons which you have repeated after the Power representative are ample evidence. You know as well as I do that the Public Service Commission would not allow the deferred stock or the dividends thereon to be impaired. The Commission has so ruled repeatedly in recent weeks. Yet this childish assertion is made again and again. Why? O, no doubt to scare the uninformed holders of preferred stock into an organized opposition and, if these assertions are intermixed with abuse, ridicule, satire and a mien of injured dignity, they are depended upon to accomplish their purpose.

To use your own phraseology: "Mr. Vogt would realize that rates fixed by the Public Service Commission, if it functions properly, are based upon investments and costs." Exactly. If the present day cost of production labor, material and equipment and the investments made on the local plant not on the general property of the company located somewhere else, does not cry to high heaven for an investigation then I do not know what more you want. But this plea for investigation is not my plea, it is the plea of every household in Appleton with the exception of a few swayed and personally interested parties. I took this resolution to the council finally after being requested and urged by many local people for more than 4 months and judging from the many calls I received since the last council meeting, calls full of indignation and wrath, it matters very little what the council will finally do. The Public Service Commission will be petitioned for an investigation just the same. And rest assured upon my shoulders of the Power Co. The Public Service Commission has trained investigators who have a legal access to all utility records, I have not. Should the consumers of Appleton be in such a deplorable position as to be obliged to dig out for themselves any figurative facts and submit them completed to the Commission they would be licked before they started. We would need no Commission, but would depend upon competition in utility service. Now we have no commission who will adjust matters to the satisfaction of all concerned. If the utility is in financial straits, it should welcome an investigation. Why do they move heaven and earth to prevent one?

Ph. Vogt.

Farley Strong Hand at Helm Of His Party

National Chairman Putting New Life Into Democratic Campaign

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
New York—Whatever the Democrats may lack in money in carrying out their presidential campaign, they will make up in energy and efficiency. For James Farley, Democratic national chairman, is putting new life and resourcefulness into the contest this year and he is going at it with all the shrewdness of an old-timer and the enthusiasm of a newcomer in the field of national politics.

Mr. Farley knows the value of personal contact. When the Democratic national convention was over,
he wrote a personal letter of thanks to every delegate who had voted for Roosevelt. He has had to date more than 400 replies. Many of them expressed surprise that a national chairman would care that much about the delegates—usually they are forgotten the day after the nominations are made. From those letters, Mr. Farley gleaned ideas and plans for the future. It is especially important that the national chairman this year should develop as many contacts as possible, for the regional plan of campaign management has been abandoned for everything is concentrated in national headquarters here.

As for finances, Mr. Farley isn't worrying about that either. He feels that this is the kind of year when small contributions will have to be sought and that appeals for funds to a larger list than usual will produce even more workers than normally get busy for the ticket in a presidential year.

Up To States
When it comes to state campaigns,
Mr. Farley this time has a better reason for declining to spend national funds than any of his predecessors. The funds are limited.
Whatever is available must go for the national campaign. The states must look out for themselves. Many of the state managers already are writing in saying they will not need any help but in fact will be able to aid in raising money for the national ticket.

Mr. Farley's idea of bringing in all the state chairmen and national committeemen for individual conferences is an improvement over the disorganized way these things used to be done. The plan always has been to bring the leaders in at the acceptance speech and then depend on the regional managers to keep contact with the state situations. Under the concentrated plan of action, Mr. Farley will keep track of what is happening in every state and thus will be able to give more attention to a critical party situation than might otherwise be the case.

Possible Trip West
Considerable doubt prevails as to whether Governor Roosevelt will make a transcontinental trip, though the demand for his presence is coming from Democratic leaders in the west who feel that there, especially, Mr. Roosevelt's doctrines will find a sympathetic response.

Even though these are busy and serious times for a governor of New York, still, with Lieut. Governor Lehman available, the Democratic nominee is able to plan long absences. The cost of campaigning and the strain on the candidate are factors which will enter into the final decision, though Governor Roosevelt is anxious for the fray, believing that his physical condition can meet any campaign stress; and some of his friends argue that a

103 Candidates in Race for Offices

Set Tuesday as Last Day

Madison—(7)—One hundred and three candidates for state, congress-

filed nomination papers for the Sept. 20 primary with the secretary of state Monday.

Today is the last day for filing. The secretary of state's staff said that papers must be placed in

Up to Sunday 90 had filed and 13 others got under the wire today.
They included: United States Sen-

Adrian H. McNally, New Rich-

Republican, for congress in the dying down ever since Mr. Roose-campaign are not going to be per-

Students Urged to Register During Month of August

Students of high school age who have moved to Appleton this summer and who are planning to attend school are being urged to register for next year's work at Appleton high school during August.

Under the system of advanced registration, according to H. H.
Helble, classes, courses and the various approximate number of students in each class are arranged and charted before school closes in June.

With new students attending to their registration in August, they are able to arrange their courses more easily without delay and in many cases they have better chances of enrolling in elective courses before the classes are filled.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW TAXES

WHERE THEY HIT YOU
—AND HOW!

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 15th of 20 daily articles explaining the new federal taxes.

BY ROBERT TALLEY

Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.

Both beer and wine are illegal in the United States, but Uncle Sam is overlooking no bets when it comes to collecting taxes from home brewers and amateur winemakers in his big effort to balance the federal budget.

Home-brewers and basement wine-makers are counted on to add a large share of an estimated total of $82,000,000 from the new federal tax on manufacturers of brewers' wort, malt syrup, etc.,
and grape concentrate. And if one had rather drink water, he will pay on that too—for mineral water is also taxed.

In many cases the tax is hidden in an increased retail price of the product.

The tax on brewers' wort is 15 cents a gallon and the tax on malt syrup, etc., is 3 cents a pound.

Oddly enough, the law says that malt syrup, etc., is exempt from the tax if it is sold for such legal purposes as to a baker for making bread, to a manufacturer of medicinal products or textiles. But if it is sold for other purposes (home-brewing) the product is taxable.

The tax on grape concentrate, etc., is 20 cents a gallon. Oddly enough the law exempts from this tax any such products "which contain sufficient preservative to prevent fermentation when diluted."

A good home-brew drinker and his friends can get away with a five-gallon "batch" of home-brew weekly. A three-pound can of malt makes a "batch." At 3 cents a pound, that is a tax of 9 cents a week or about $5 a year for the home-brewer.

And if you prefer neither home-brew, wine or near-beer and would rather drink water, there is a tax on that too, for mineral waters and table waters selling at over 12½ cents a gallon are taxed at 2 cents per gallon.

Commodity prices in Japan are still dropping.

Blames Bank Body for Many Failures in State

Lake Geneva—P—The cause of recent bank failures in Wisconsin, William D. Rubin, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor said here last night. "Can we not blame the crash ignorance of directors and boards of the present administration and the incompetency of our banking department?"

"In Milwaukee of the district attorney is investigating the closing of the Bank of Shorewood. Why do district attorneys elsewhere not investigate bank failures and most of all why does the attorney general not investigate the banking department in connection with many of these failures?" he asked.

WANTS TO TELL EVERY WOMAN

How Much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Improved Her Health

"For years I suffered with spasmodic cramps. I had always heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after everything else failed, one of my friends persuaded me to try it. I didn't have much hope but the results I am getting make me want to shout 'Lydia Pinkham' from the housetops to tell every woman about it. My nerves are much steadier now. I do not dread another terrible attack for I feel better and stronger in every way. I have taken seven bottles so far and intend to keep on until I am entirely well."—Mrs. E. A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON
Owen D. Young

A good biography of Owen D. Young is certainly needed, and there are few Americans better qualified to write one than Ida M. Tarbell. It is, therefore, unfortunate that Miss Tarbell's new book, "Owen D. Young: A New Type of Industrial Leader," is rather disappointing.

It is disappointing, that is, because it comes from Miss Tarbell. It could have been so much better than it is.

As a straight-away story of the man's life, to be sure, it leaves nothing to be desired.

Miss Tarbell gives an excellent picture of his background and his boyhood, and sketches in his early environment with sure strokes. The hired man who awakened in him a desire for learning, the grandfather who feared the boy would grow up to be a preacher, the boy himself deciding to become a lawyer because lawyers could sit in cool courthouses on hot summer days instead of sweating in the fields—these little touches are nicely handled.

So, too, are the main events of his later career; his start as a $10-a-week clerk in Boston, his entrance into the public utilities field, the legal battle that landed him in General Electric's law department, and the subsequent activities that made him world famous.

But something is lacking: A thoughtful and critical biography of Mr. Young could be an exceedingly important book, a study of American life that is badly needed.

The Faithful Cheat

BY RUBY M. AYRES

SYNOPSIS: "Would you marry John Anderson if he were free?" Sondra Kent Merriman's sister Flora asks her, not knowing that Sondra had secretly married Mark Merriman before he sailed for the Congo. Sondra is fond of Anderson, who has held almost the attitude of a guardian toward her for many years. But her love for Mark was strong enough to break down her decision not to marry him because of his poverty. She realizes. Flora would tell Sondra she could not live with her, if she knew Sondra were married. And so Sondra adds a secret to the burden of her five-year separation from Mark. She has been brought up to expect luxury and make a wealthy marriage, by her father. Now she wonders whether she will change in her feeling for Mark before he comes back again. She also wonders whether Anderson suspects she has a secret.

Chapter 12
"DON'T FORGET ME"
HY wouldn't I marry John?" Sondra laughed, wondering what Flora would say if she spoke the truth and said: "Because I am married already."
"Because I don't care for him—in that way," she said instead.
"In what way?" Flora demanded irritably. "Any way is good enough in order to secure a rich husband, isn't it. I thought it was anyway." She sighed. "Life's such a muddle."
"Why?" Sondra wished she would go; she was longing to open that wire and read its content; she knew well enough that it must be from Mark.
"It's such a muddle," Flora said again rather pathetically. "Nothing ever seems quite right—nobody ever has what they really want."
"I should have thought that you had everything," Sondra said in a hard voice. "Or if you haven't—you're rich enough to get it."
"There are some things you can't get—just with money," Flora answered, then she laughed, as if to dispel her seriousness. "Well, hurry up for goodness sake."
"I shan't be a moment." But Flora did not go.
"Did you see Mark Merriman off this morning?" she asked.
"Yes."
"I don't suppose he'll ever come back," Flora said bluntly.
"Why not?"
"Oh I don't know... men who go abroad for years never seem to—or if they do they don't stay, they can't settle down again. I suppose he was in love with you, wasn't he?"
"What makes you think that?"
"Well, I've got eyes, and I'm not exactly an imbecile," Flora said tartly. "It's a good thing you didn't happen to care for him."
"Why?"
"Why?... good lord what a question! Because there are a thousand reasons why you're unsuited to each other of course. He'll never be rich enough for you, for one, and he's not your sort for another."
Sondra said faintly: "It would be interesting to know what kind of man you imagine is 'my sort' as you call it."

"Anderson, or someone like him," Flora answered promptly. "Mark's too narrow minded for you—too conventional—too goody-goody."
"I never noticed it."
"Because you didn't know him well enough. What do you imagine he would think of your friendship with John, for instance, — if he knew it?"
"He does know?"
"He does know?" Flora echoed in amazement. Then she shrugged her shoulders. "Well—hurry up!" She went out of the door behind her.
Sondra arranged her hair, but her hands shook, and her face was burning. She felt as if someone had insulted her—and yet Flora had only spoken the truth, when she said that Mark would disapprove of her friendship with John Anderson—if he knew.
If he knew—what? There was nothing to know except that he sometimes gave her presents—handsome presents. Why shouldn't he? He was a wealthy man, and if he chose to give some of his money to a girl who had nothing, it was nobody's business. He had been almost her guardian ever since she was a little girl. People were so helpful, she had read Flora's thoughts in her eyes—and surely it was a little incongruous for Flora to condemn her, no matter what she thought.
There was very little difference in them if it came to that, for Flora had only married for money, without a spark of affection for Ben Lomax. Still it was from her husband that Flora took money, while she... Sondra took up the yellow envelope and opened it.
"Bless you always—don't forget me. All my love, Mark."
The flimsy paper fluttered to the floor, and Sondra covered her face with her hands.
"I'm not worth loving, Mark—," she whispered desolately. "I'm not worth loving."
For a moment a wild impulse came to her to find Flora and tell her the truth. What was the use of keeping her marriage a secret? It would have to be known some day, so why not now?
Impulsively she took a step towards the door, then stopped.
What would become of her if Flora knew? She could visualize the scene so well.
"You've got a husband—let him keep you."
Ben also would be only too glad to seize upon such an excuse to be rid of her, and then—where could she go? What could she do?
A maid came to the door.
"The car is waiting, Miss."
Sondra took up her wrap and went downstairs.
"Anyone would think this was your own house, the casual way you behave," Flora scolded her as they drove away. "You know how I dislike being kept waiting."
Sondra said nothing, she pressed her lips tightly together to keep back the angry words that rose to them.
She and Flora often quarreled, but tonight Sondra realized that she could no longer afford to quarrel—that she was more dependent upon her sister than ever before.
If only some one could happen that could send Mark back to her—send her back a real man.
She thought suddenly of his eyes and his smile, and the close pressure of his arms.
"Or send him back to me—anyhow," she thought desolately, and the tears burned in her eyes.
At dinner she sat next to John Anderson.
As a rule she liked his company, but tonight it irritated her because it seemed to be taken for granted that his place was at her side. "Aren't you tired to death of my company?" she asked.
"Does that mean that you are tired to death of mine?" he asked. (Copyright, 1932, by Ruby M. Ayres)

"I'm going away," Anderson tells Sondra on Monday. She tries to persuade him to stay.

Hobbins' Homer in Ninth Gives Phones Win Over Coated

Papermakers Ousted From Tie for Lead

Fox River and Tuttle Press Start A. L. Title Series Tonight

THERE'S an old saying that all's well that ends well, and that being the case the 1932 softball season has been a big success for the Telephone company. Last night the Phones dumped the Coated Paper company out of a tie for first place by beating them 7 and 5 in ten innings.

The Coated defeat leaves the Tuttle Press and Fox River teams battling for the A. L. title. They play their first game tonight at Roosevelt diamond. The crown will be decided by two out of three games.

Coated took the lead in last night's game when it scored a run in the first and then two in the third. The fourth frame saw the Phone kick up a fuss and take the lead with four tallies. One run in the last of the fourth evened matters for the Coated.

In the seventh Coated scored again and the Phones evened the score with one in the eighth. Neither team scored in the ninth and the tenth opened with the count knotted at five all.

Shortly after the tenth opened, Schroeder got on base and while reposing at second Bill Hobbins busted a long home run and the Phones were ahead 7 and 5. They then stopped Coated and went home with the win.

Don Mollenbeck toiled for the Phones and gave five hits. He whiffed seven batters and Eggert fanned five for Coated. Hobbins walked six men and Eggert four. Each team had four errors.

Chuters, Kimberly In Last Ball Game

Each Has Won Victory in Inter Village Battles; One Game a Tie

Two teams representing Little Chute and Kimberly baseball talent will be staged at 5:15 Wednesday night at Kimberly. The series was started several weeks ago and has stirred up more than ordinary interest.

"Boots" Lamers is managing the Chuters and Tony Van Thull, Kimberly baker, is bossing his village aggregation. And when they are not managing they are telling each other about the merits of their respective clubs.

The first game of the series was played at Little Chute and the Chuters copped. In the second game at Kimberly the boys battled until darkness and then quit with the score at 3 all. Last Wednesday they clashed again at Little Chute and Kimberly won the nod 4 and 2.

Art Behr will toil for Kimberly and Vandersteen for Little Chute.

Sports Club Soccer Team Loses to Eagles

Appletton Sport club soccer team, playing a far better brand of ball than in a previous game here, lost to the Croation Eagles at Milwaukee, Sunday, by a score of 2 and 1. Playing against a strong wind and sun during the opening half, Appletton held the Eagles to a scoreless tie.

In the second half, playing with the wind, Appletton pressed the Eagles hard and after 15 minutes of play scored a point. The Eagles tallied twice near the end of the period.

After the game the Appletton team was guest of the Eagles at an inn on highway 100 and treated to a lamb barbecue and danced to Croation music.

Ten Inning Battle Ends in Argument

A ten inning game that ended with the score 11 and 11 and the bums locked in argument featured play in the Shoc River Valley league Sunday. Shilston has a claim to the game which featured the argument and claims Lawrenceville the loser. A final decision probably will be made later by league officers.

In other games Cicero whipped Madison 18 and 7, Binghamton pounded Bovina for a 13 and 1 decision. Next Sunday Shilston goes to Mattison, Lawrenceville to Bovina and Cicero to Binghamton.

Printers Beat Co. D.; Place Second in A. L.

Co. D. softball team in the National league was boosted out of second place last night when defeated by the Printers by a count of 5 and 4. Too many errors tell the story of the defeat. The Printers finished league play in second place.

Holding a 4 and 1 lead as the ninth inning opened, Phil Jacobson, Printer hurler, blew up and Co. D. scored three runs, a couple coming on Johnny Green's two bagger. When the Printers came to the plate Biggers got a hit that resulted in the winning run for the Printers.

Tonight National and American league teams in the second division will start a series of games. The Bankers and the Chair Interlake teams will settle the question at 5:30 tonight at Pierce park.

Six Runs in Ninth Win for Athletics

Barrage of Hits Gives Fourth Warders Late 9 and 3 Victory

Appletton Athletics won their Little Fox River Valley league game Sunday afternoon from Darby with a ninth inning rally that netted them six runs. The final score was 9 and 3 for the A's.

Going into the first of the ninth with the score at three all the Fourth warders landed hard on the Darby pitcher. Grishaber opened with a double, Ellis did likewise and Kolland repeated it. Then came singles by De Young and Kranzsch and with the bases loaded Horn batted for Kirk and doubled to clean the sack.

Stoffel was on the mound for the A's in the absence of Orville Refke. He allowed Darby three hits.

Paavo Nurmi Through As Amateur Performer

Los Angeles—J. Paavo Nurmi probably through as an amateur outside of his native Finland, even though the international amateur athletic federation has concluded its 1932 congress without officially stamping the famous Finn as a professional or acquiring the executive powers needed to rule out of the Simon-pure ranks.

Ranking officials of the Amateur Athletic union of the United States including Avery Brundage and Daniel J. Ferris, president and secretary, refused today to pass definitely on whether Nurmi would be permitted to engage an amateur competition in this country. Fred W. Rubien, veteran American delegate to the I. A. A. F. declared:

"Nurmi is through as an amateur, unless he continues to run only in Finland. We don't know whether he intends to turn pro. The films say he will not and insist he is still in good standing but the suspension of the international federation stands even though the Olympic committee is over. Under such circumstances, neither the United States nor any other country could accept Nurmi's entry as an amateur."

Chicago—Art Lasky, Minneapolis, outpointed Tom Jones, Chicago 10-0; Dick Daniels, Minneapolis, and Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., drew 8-8.

Lookout Boys, Someone Will Cry 'Over-Emphasis'

LOS ANGELES—P. "Gus" Weaver of Southern California personally attended to snatching victory for the western "big three" eleven from an eastern team last evening in a demonstration game of American college football, played under the floodlights of the Olympic stadium with many of the 60,000 spectators seeing their first contest.

The final score was 7 to 6 in favor of the combined forces of U. S. C. California and Stanford, against the aggregation representing Yale. Harvard and Princeton, the far western players, gave a more superior exhibition of offensive football than the margin indicated. All the scoring was confined to the last period and the west's winning spurt came with only three minutes left to play and the east fighting desperately to hold its touchdown lead.

The east, after staving off three western drives to its 5-yard line in the first three periods broke the scoreless deadlock by gaining a touchdown early in the final quarter through the alertness of a Yale boy named Burton Stranace. A

Weaver Is Driven To Cover but Wins His 18th Victory

Washington Nationals Pitcher First Rookie To Cop 18 Games

BY HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer
ALTER JOHNSON perhaps has few visions now of winning an American league pennant with his Washington Senators this season but at least he has uncovered the most effective pitching rookie in the circuit.

Montie M. Weaver, who quit mathematical calculations to cast his lot with baseball, now leads both leagues in games won and lost with 18 victories and only five defeats. His only real rival among first-year men seems to be Lon Wanabeke of the Chicago Cubs.

Weaver has beaten every club in the American league at least once. He has whipped the Philadelphia Athletics five times; Boston and Chicago thrice; New York, Cleveland and St. Louis twice and Detroit once. Of his five defeats, three were handed him by St. Louis. The others are credited to New York and Chicago. What makes Weaver's record all the more remarkable is that he suffered three defeats in one five-day period and now has not lost a game since June 14.

Driven to Cover
He needed all sorts of luck yesterday, however, to chalk up his eighteenth triumph at the expense of the Cleveland Indians, 7-6. He was battered for 10 hits and was driven to cover in the eighth inning when the Indians rallied for two runs, within one of a tie. Hildebrand, Connolly and Brown held the Senators to five hits but three Cleveland errors spelled defeat.

The Senators counted five times in the second on three hits, two walks and errors by Averill and Burnett. The latter's second fumble paved the way for two more runs in the fourth.

The only other clubs in action, the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies, played a tie game, 7-6, and 6-4 in 11 innings. The Phils. as a result dropped into fifth place in the National league standing. Three-run rallies in the eighth and ninth innings gave the Cardinals the opening game. Jimmy Collins' eighteenth homer with Bottomley on base won the nightcap. Pitching in a relief role, Dizzy Dean held the Phils to two hits in the test six innings of the second game.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

THERE will be many rumors flying around during the next few weeks as to where Rogers Hornsby will do his baseball master-minding, if at all, next season. If he stays in the National league, and that is where all his baseball life has been spent, there are five probabilities and two possibilities.

The contracts of George Gibson, of the Pirates; Max Carey, of the Dodgers; and Bill Terry, of the Giants, are for one year and expire this fall as does the three-year contract of Dan Howley, of the Reds. Unless players feel their teams take a terrific tumble between now and the end of the season you can mark the Pirates, and Dodgers off the list.

Gibson is the newest "miracle man" of baseball with his Buccaners riding high at the head of the league.

Although there was some question for a time as to whether Carey

BLACK CREEK—The league as a whole was a bad knee and most recently he was badly jolted at Green Valley and his knee injured. Since then he has been on the bench very often, and unable to play. Apparently the Braves scout to trade him for someone whole and he kicked. Now Judge Puchs has turned him over to a saw bones and he may be fixed up.

Frankie Parker in Third Round of Play
Culver, Ind.—The seeded list in four divisions was intact today as the national junior and boys singles tennis championships went into the third round on the Culver Military academy courts.

Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, seeded number one in the junior tournament, progressed to the third round yesterday without the loss of a game, and the other favorites, Gene Mako, Los Angeles, Marco Hech of New York, and Jack Lynch, Taft, Cal., the defending champ, moved along almost as easily.

Grishabers, DeYongs Organize Ball Team

The Grishaber and DeYoung clans in the Fourth ward have joined forces and organized a softball team with which they will play any time they can get a game. Wednesday night the team will play its second game meeting the Kimbrough families at Interlake park. Last night the G. D.'s won from the Service Bakery by a score of 9 to 5.

The G. D.'s want games with any other family team in the city or valley.

Marquette Gridders To Practice Sept. 15

Milwaukee—Fall football practice will open at Marquette university, as usual, on Sept. 15, and Coach Frank Murray already has addressed a one letter to the leading candidates for his team, urging them to keep in condition and reminding them of their assignments on plays used in spring drill.

The Marquette stadium will be used for all workouts. Murray's Hilltoppers have not done their training on the island at Lake Michigan, for several years.

Unfortunately, the coaches can hold only one practice a day before the first game which Lawrenceville plays Sept. 24. Classes resume at Marquette Sept. 15, and that means that only the usual afternoon hours will be available.

Johnny Goodman Hurt When He Tries Baseball

Omaha—P. Johnny Goodman, Omaha golfer who several years ago gained national recognition by defeating Bobby Jones, today faced loss of the Nebraska golf championship he has held since 1926 because he played baseball Sunday. A baseball struck the end of the bat on his right hand and yesterday's 18 holes of the 33 hole qualifying round in the 1932 state tournament, he turned in a 75. One of the largest scores he has ever turned in in state competition.

YESTERDAY'S STARS
Johnny Burnett, Indians—Solved Senator pitching for two doubles and two singles, driving in two runs and scoring one.
Jimmy Collins, Cardinals—Drove in three runs in first game against Phillies with double and three singles; drove in four with home run and two singles in second.

Fight and Records Feature Olympic Aquatic Program

Helene Madison Sets New Mark for 100 Meter Sprint Event

BY PAUL ZIDDMAN Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES—A calm swimming stadium today, as aquatic events of the world returned to the routine of record breaking after the small riot which disturbed yesterday's events.

Three Brazilian stars were barred from further competition and that country's water polo team was disqualified as a result of their attack on Bela Knapik of Hungary, referee.

The wild scramble of flying fists and kicking feet came as a climax to the third day of the meet, which saw the world's record bettered for the first time and two new Olympic marks set up, one of these for the fifth time.

Helene Madison, Seattle's 20-year-old breaker of free style records, proved she is still the greatest.

HELENE WILL QUIT

Los Angeles—Helene Madison, 20-year-old smashing mermaid from Seattle, her father says, will retire from racing after the Olympic games. "She's fed up herself with all of it," Charles Madison said today. He remarked her competition had been expensive to him and added, "this amateur swimming is quite a business. I'd like to see her get something out of it."

100 meter sprinter of the world, by winning the final in 1 minute 68 second, defeating Williamson Dan Ouden young Dutch girl by two meters.

Miss Dan Ouden had set the Olympic record at 1:07.6 only the day before, after three others had broken it in trials on the opening day. The recognized world's record of 1:03.0 established by Albina Osipowich, United States, in 1929, was eclipsed by three full seconds.

Yank Women Lead
The United States as a result, took the leadership in women's team scores with 17 points, against 5 for Holland and one for South Africa.

There is a strong chance that the lead will be cut down today with the final of the women's 200 meter breast stroke for Clara Denner, a 19-year-old Australian girl, set a new Olympic record in the semifinals with Margaret Hoffman, of Kingston, Pa., trailing.

All three of America's entries, Miss Hoffman, Anne Goodnick, and Jane Cadwell, qualified for today's race, along with Hilda Hudeka, Japan, who also bettered the old Olympic record.

United States moved into the men's team leadership over Japan yesterday when Mickey Riley Galt, with the service brand diving title, won Harold Smith and Richard Duncan, both of Yankee extraction, second and third. The count now stands 27 for United States, 13 for Japan, 3 for Canada and 2 for Germany.

Close competition is expected in the 400 meter races, with the Olympic record set only yesterday by Takao, Yokoyama, Japan, at 5:32.1. It will be a tumble again, when France, applicant for a world's record of 4:47, Clarence Galt, United States, and Andrew (Doc) Charlton, Australia, are favorites in tomorrow's final.

Associated Press Financial Editor
New York.—The stock market followed a zig-zag course between alternate waves of profit-taking and fresh buying today, and closed with a fairly steady tone, with changes in pivotal issues largely narrow. The turnover approximated 3,000,000 shares.

Trading continued in large volume, but substantially under yesterday's. A brisk advance in the utilities in the late morning failed to attract an impressive following, and the list generally balked at exceeding yesterday's highs. By early afternoon, a number of issues were a point or two under yesterday's close. A sell-off at the opening had been quickly checked.

Extreme gains of 2 to 3 points were registered around noon in such issues as American Telephone, American Public Service, North American, Public Service, N. J. Stone and Webster, American and Foreign Power, American Power and Light, American Can, Allied Chemical, Safeway Stores, Coca Cola, and others. This advance was substantially reduced, however, as U. S. Steel common and Eastman reacted to show losses of about 2 points during the early afternoon. Case, Union Pacific, Santa Fe and American Telephone slipped a point or so under yesterday's close.

Several common stock houses felt that a substantial technical reaction was overdue, as a natural reaction to such a violent upturn as that of the past month. Bear traders continued to play for a reaction, and met with a little more success, after their futile and costly efforts of the past fortnight. Some important financial interests were said to have felt that the market was going ahead too rapidly for its own good, and have started to buying and selling orders in the hope of keeping the market more orderly. Buying, however, surpassed expectations, and the effort was abandoned as these interests found themselves losing their long position.

A morning setback in wheat tended to take some of the edge off the bullish enthusiasm, this may have been in part due to indications that the plan proposed by Eugene Meyer to aid in financing the movement of commodities to fabrications was apparently directed toward cotton and some other lines, at the start at least, rather than wheat. Bar silver joined the move in commodities with the ship advance of 1 cent an ounce to 26 1/2 cents.

Some important quarters in Wall Street turned definitely to the view that one of the next major steps in the plans of governmental and financial leaders for economic rehabilitation, envisaged better commercial relations with Russia. Such a step, it was felt, had important potentialities for manufacturers of machinery.

An announcement before the end of the week on the plan to set up a fund, perhaps as much as $100,000,000 to help manufacturers with raw material purchases, was predicted in some important banking quarters. Railroad executives also met this week to consider the plan of borrowing from the reconstruction corp. to renovate equipment.

Utilities Lead
Advance on Curb
Profit-Taking Fails to Minimize Gains in Continued Rally

New York.—Cross currents of profit-taking and fresh buying in the stock market today, though the latter was somewhat early after the opening, resulted in a fairly steady close. The market was a point or two under yesterday's close.

Favorites in the power and light company division were bid up briefly for a time. Electric Bond and Share turned over actively, climbing to the neighborhood of 20 before meeting much resistance, while American Gas rose more than 2 points. There were sharp advances by a number of preferred stocks, notably senior issues of Columbia Gas and Electric and American Superpower, as well as the bond and shares.

Oils were largely neglected, but some specialties continued to improve and Singer manufacturing and A. O. Smith advanced sharply on add lot buying. Aluminum of America encountered resistance after early firmness, and Swift International was mildly heavy. Deere backed up when Case turned reactionary on the big board.

Trading continued at a fairly active pace, although turnover during most of the day was somewhat under recent volume.

Profit-Taking Checks
Rise on Chicago Mart

Chicago.—Profit-taking applied a brake to advancing prices on the Chicago stock exchange today, but recessions were mostly fractional. Borg-Warner and Bendix continued to command a volume point of view. Union Carbide, slipping a fraction at the start, snapped back to rise a point. Gypsum and Grigsby also made some progress on the upside. Quaker oats lost around a point.

Livestock Prices On Steady Basis

Hold Marketings in Line With Volume of Current Movements

Chicago.—By keeping marketings of swine in line with the volume of the current movement of fresh pork into consumptive channels, producers enabled commission men to hold live prices on a fairly steady basis today. Satisfactory action developed in the local yards, several classes of operators taking good to choice hogs of light and medium weight at steady prices, with some demand for heavy hogs. The $5.00 hog appeared early in the trade.

Packers were in receipt of 3,000 hogs on direct billing, and 4,000 hogs on direct billing, from yesterday's supply. The fresh run of 18,000, sufficiently to prevent the market from getting out of hand. Light packing sows were wanted, heavy butchers met with an indifferent demand and weights above 320 lbs. lagged. Hogs averaging 190 to 220 lbs. were favored, moving largely to eastern shippers and small traders at $13.50-14.50.

Improved call for dressed beef in all of the leading wholesale markets imparted a stronger tone to the live cattle market. While packers had no direct receipts of bovine stock, they were not active at the counter, but eastern operators gave evidence during the initial round of broad requirements. Fresh offerings afforded only a few loads of well finished steers, the bulk showing grass feeding.

Council Prepares To Study Budget

Aldermen Get Together For Informal Discussion of Finances

Kaukauna — Discussion of city expenditures for the remainder of the year, preliminary to arranging a budget will take place at an informal meeting of the common council Tuesday evening. Mayor B. W. Fargo suggested the budget plan last Tuesday evening after the council had heard a report from the city treasurer. It was revealed that there was a balance of $102,000 in the treasury.

Due to the decrease in the taxation and because of a large project undertaken by the council it was pointed out that the balance in the treasury at the present time is less than it was at the same time last year.

In 1931 the city completed the year without borrowing the first time in more than 20 years that the city was able to pay all its bills without borrowing money.
